Apathy Over Election On Zone Change

A surprisingly mild interest is being shown at present in the coming election which has been called for the purpose of changing the present sanitary zone to include the Mountain Glen Healthatorium on Churchill road and the Sierra Madre hospital at 124 North Baldwin. The election will be held on Dec. 16, Wednesday.

The city trustees opened the battle against the zoning ordinance at the meeting last week when a resolution was passed reciting that it was understood that Dr. G. W. Groth did not authorize the circulation of the petition and that he did not expect to build an addition to his present quarters soon. In the resolution, the board also took the stand that it would be possible to issue a special permit in the case of the Sierra Madre hospital and resolved that Dr. Groth be asked to apply for a permit so that the one proposition be submitted to the voters.

Dr. Groth's Position
In a letter addressed to the board, Dr. Groth replied that he did not authorize the circulation of the petition but there was no mention of an application in the letter. It is asserted by those in touch with the situation that there could be no change in the election even if Dr. Groth had applied for a permit, because the call for the election has already been made and that the call must be made in accordance with the petition.

It has been charged by those opposing the change in the zone that Dr. H. Clapham, head of the Mountain Glen Healthatorium, expects to increase the number of patients which are housed in his institution. Robert Mitchell, attorney for Dr. Clapham, however, stated that at present most of those who are classed as mental cases are drug or drink addicts and that the ordinance makes no provision for them being kept out of any part of town. According to Mr. Mitchell, this type of patient could be kept at the institution even if the amendment to the zoning ordinance failed to pass.

Those opposing the change in the ordinance contend that a change in the ordinance is a bad precedent to establish. They say if this one is passed, it could logically be expected that other amendments would follow. There is also some contention that the new zoning law would weaken the ordinance, and perhaps open the way to complete nullification of the zone system now existent.

The Official Argument
Arguments on both sides of questions submitted by initiative petition are permitted on the sample ballots sent to voters. No argument in support of this ordinance appears, but the following argument in opposition was prepared by the board of trustees:

The proposed ordinance would make the site of the so-called "Healthatorium" on Churchill road a part of "Zone B," in which sanitariums and hospitals are permitted. "Zone B" already includes 350 acres. It was established by Ordinance 271, proposed by initiative petition, and adopted June 28, 1923.

The "Healthatorium" located in violation of a prior ordinance, has continually fought Ordinance 271 in the courts, while operating in defiance of it. Convicted before a jury in our local court, it appealed to the Superior Court, where the sentence was recently affirmed. In the injunction suit, brought by the "Healthatorium," after hearings in three different departments, final judgment was rendered against it September 15 last, the court finding, as facts, that patients have frequently been permitted to escape from the Healthatorium grounds and annoy the neighborhood, and "have also conducted themselves on the premises in an indecent and obnoxious manner" and that the "Healthatorium," "both in its essential nature and in the manner and mode of its operation, has been and is now in that locality contrary to the public welfare."

VETERANS TO ADOPT SCOUT TROOPS, PLAN

World War veterans throughout the state are going to adopt Boy Scout troops during the coming year. According to plans made by State Commander Allen B. Bixby of the American Legion, every unit of his organization in the 300 odd communities of the state will "father" one or more troops of Boy Scouts during the next year.

Chester J. Turner of Los Angeles has been named to head the state-wide committee of the Legion which will work with the officials of the Boy Scout organization in interesting the ex-service men in the boys' troops.

The move on the part of the Legion follows the action recently taken by the national convention of the organization in determining upon a policy of close cooperation with the national leaders in the Boy Scout councils.

Ensemble in Program at Seiling Home

Another of the enjoyable string ensemble programs by pupils of Oscar Seiling was given Sunday afternoon at the Seiling home at the head of Adams street. It was a genuine revelation to a large number of Sierra Madre people who were among the guests and who realized for the first time what a splendid agency of musical culture had been developed in the community by Mr. Seiling. The following program was presented:

Prelude and Allegro (Pugnani-Kreisler), Miss Laura Berkowitz.
Air on G string (Bach), the Ensemble.
Romanza (Wilhelmj), Mrs. Elsa Mills.

Concert for two violins (Bach), Misses Sherlock and Hansen.
Album Leaf (Wagner), Mr. Harold Scott.
Liebeslied (Kreisler), Barbara Baird.

Romanza (Svendsen), Miss Emma Bauer.
Walther's Prize Song (Wagner), Miss Olive Sherlock.

Mrs. Seiling was assisted in receiving by Mrs. George B. Morgridge. Following the program coffee and cake were served by Mrs. Seiling, assisted by Mrs. T. J. Burns, Jr. Later the following out of town folk were the dinner guests of the Seilings: Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. E. Roth, Mrs. Guy Bates Post, Mr. A. Dods-worth, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Fitzgerald, Mr. MacKeefer, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Hays, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Simonson, Mrs. Tom Woolwine, Mr. and Mrs. Cole.

Ensemble to Broadcast
This same organization will broadcast Saturday night from station KFI. This will be welcome news to those who are familiar with the work of the ensemble, and also to many who have not had the privilege of hearing Mr. Seiling's pupils. Mr. Seiling will direct practically the same program given above.

Mrs. Blanche I. Muskrath, Mrs. Harriet Buckingham, Mrs. R. M. Finlayson, Mrs. Mary J. Dickinson and Miss Eleanor Bayne attended the installation of officers at Southland chapter, O. E. S., on Monday night.

The institution thus condemned, after two years of unsuccessful litigation, is asking our voters to reverse the courts and legalize its obnoxious operations by altering "Zone B."

The proposed ordinance would also add to "Zone B" a lot adjoining the Sierra Madre Hospital on Baldwin Avenue. This raises a false issue. If an enlargement of the Hospital is needed, the City's Trustees have power, in such an exceptional case, to grant a special permit under Ordinance 271. Hence there is no need to make this lot a part of "Zone B." That would not only permit use for the same purpose as the existing Hospital, but would allow any future owner to establish an institution as objectionable as the "Healthatorium."

H.E. Allen Is Made Master Of Masons

H. E. Allen was elected master of Sierra Madre lodge No. 408 F. & A. M., at the annual meeting on Tuesday night. J. N. Hawks was elected senior warden and Convers L. Twycross junior warden. All three were advanced for meritorious service in the line of succession. Rudolph R. Hartman was elected secretary and Arthur T. Evans was elected treasurer. The other offices are filled by appointment of the incoming master.

Installation of officers has been set for Tuesday night, Dec. 29. It is understood Judge Dana R. Weller, past grand master, will be present to act as installing officer. The installation will be open to Master Masons only.

Grading of the lot surrounding the new Masonic temple has been in progress during the past week. It is planned to do the permanent planting in time to get the benefit of the winter rains and growing season.

O. E. S. Meeting

The last meeting of the chapter year at which the present officers of the Eastern Star chapter will preside will take place next Monday night. This will be the regular meeting and a full attendance is requested by the matron, Mrs. Blanche I. Muskrath.

Installation of the incoming officers of the chapter will take place at a special meeting to be held on Monday evening, Dec. 14.

Will Enter Local Float In Parade

Plans are well under way for the Sierra Madre entry in the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena on New Year's day. Members of the department have located several large flower gardens and have made arrangements to have the float decorated at the source of the flowers.

The design has not been made public at present but it is rumored that the decorating will be under the direction of Frank Monroe Smith, assisted by the firemen and their wives. This corps of workers entered a float in the Monrovia Day parade last spring and the comment it attracted resulted in the determination on the part of the workers to enter the contest the first of the year with all colors flying.

Observations

(By G. B. M.)

When your son gets old enough to demand long pants you can't help wondering if it is time to begin feeling—well, older!

That was the way I felt the other day when I took my own boy on a shopping expedition. Of course it was not because he is so old, but just because very small boys wear 'em that way.

How styles change! Nowadays it is the old men who wear 'em short. Or the men who have leisure and the means for golf. Remembering the old family album, it seems to me there must have been a period about 50 years ago when long pants were in fashion for small boys. Nothing new under the sun.

IT MIGHT BE YOU

Poor little rich boy Rhineland! When he was sent away to boarding school, his dad did not take enough interest in him to visit him or the school.

When he got out into the world he had an apartment of his own and more money than he knew how to take care of.

When he got mixed up in a scandal that seemed likely to be smirched the family name what did dad do? Sent a lawyer to consult the boy!

Probably a lot of fond parents boiled with indignation when they read about it in the papers, thinking of that heartless father and his disregard for his son's welfare. But it is enough to direct (Continued on Page Eight)

Invitation to Men of Sierra Madre

On Wednesday, Dec. 9, there will be a program of special interest to men, as well as to women, at the Woman's Club house. The subject will be "Regional and City Planning."

George A. Damon will speak at the luncheon and his subject will be, "Roadways Between Pasadena and Sierra Madre; What They Would Mean to This District."

In the afternoon G. Gordon Whitnall will speak on the subject, "City Planning—Why?"

Men wishing to attend the luncheon should make reservations with Mrs. J. C. Dickson, Red 68, by noon, Monday.

November Is Best Month For Building

November, 1925, was the biggest November in the history of the building inspector's office since the building ordinance was passed four years ago, according to the records of A. M. Udell. The total cost of buildings started during the month just closed amounted to $7,597, which is more than $16,000 more than in November, 1924, and which is $7,500 greater than the same month in 1923, which previously held the record for the month.

Though the month's building program has been large there has been no big single project started to account for the figures. The largest permit taken out was for $5,500 with the average permit amounting to about $4,000. The month also exceeds the month of October by more than $9,000. Following is a list of the permits issued during November:

All Ready For Bazaar At St. Rita's

All members of Saint Rita's altar society report "ready" for the bazaar and Christmas sale to be held at the school auditorium, Dec. 10 and 11, both afternoon and evening.

The Holy Name society and young women of the parish are cooperating with the altar society to make this a general parish affair which should insure its success.

Friday will be the "big night" when a three-piece orchestra will assist in making the dancing both lively and enjoyable. This night many will expectantly await the giving away of the hope chest which features prominently among many articles to be awarded.

Violin Class Lesson Plan

Making a departure from his previous practice in violin instruction, Oscar Seiling announces that he will receive pupils for class instruction. There are many persons, especially parents with young children, who do not feel they can afford the best type of violin lessons because of the cost. Even with very young pupils it is important that the right start be made and time will be saved by securing the best instructor obtainable. Mr. Seiling says he hopes in time to build up an ensemble entirely of Sierra Madre pupils on a par with that now organized among the advanced pupils who receive instruction at his Los Angeles studio.

Firemen to Make Dance Best Ever

From all indications the dance to be given this year by the volunteer firemen will equal any of the previous dances put on by the fire fighters in years gone by, and if no hitch comes in the program there is a very good prospect that this year's dance will be the best ever.

Prior's orchestra has been secured for the occasion, which is a big inducement for those who know the orchestra. A program which will be full of interest and yet allow plenty of time for dancing is being arranged. Included in the program will be a Charleston contest with prizes for the winners.

Aside from the special contest there will be no Charleston during the dances, according to Tom Henderson, who is overseeing the arrangements. A large crowd is expected and in order to do the new dance successfully it is necessary to have more room than will be available. When attempted in too close quarters, Mr. Henderson says, the result is a shin kicking contest.

The date set for the dance is Saturday, Dec. 12. The affair is for the benefit of the Christmas tree and local basket fund. This has been an annual event with the firemen for the last several years.

FIRST DEVIL IN PRINTING TRADE BLACK

There is more than one explanation of how the expression "printer's devil" started, but an interesting and believable one appeared recently.

According to this, Aldus Manutius, the famous sixteenth century printer, brought to Venice a negro boy, "Blackmoors" were a great novelty there in those days. The populace thought the dark-skinned boy with the gleaming eyes was an imp from the lower regions. To quiet the excitement the great printer exhibited his apprentice in public and made this declaration:

"I, Aldus Manutius, printer to the Holy Church and to the Doge, have this day made public exposure of my 'devil.' All who think he is not flesh and blood may come and pinch him."

The belief in the youth's satanic origin subsided but the name stuck.

EXECUTIVE IN MEETING WITH LOCAL BOARD

Tallman H. Trask, Boy Scout executive for the Pasadena district, met with the new executive board of Sierra Madre Troop One Monday noon at the H. & M. cafe. The local men present were Robert Mitchell, Scoutmaster Norman Jensen, Dr. Gilbert Bovard, Harry Butcher, and J. N. Hawks, G. A. Moran, district field executive, was also present.

The meeting was given over to discussing a program for the coming year. It is the plan to form a nucleus of patrol leaders of the present members and recruiting of new scouts has already begun. There are now only nine members left of the old troop which at one time had a membership of more than 50, the other members having passed scout age.

MONEY VERSUS WORK SYSTEM

Chester Rowell writes the following bit of satire which carries a message of sound philosophy for everybody these days when the tendency is to get just as far as possible from actual work of whatever is to be done:

Want to get thin? Use Dr. Popem's pills. No diet, no exercise, no care, just buy the pills.

Want to get rich? Buy Dr. Fakem's book. No education, no brains, no work required, just buy the book, read it carelessly five minutes a day and your salary will go up.

Want to be beautiful? Buy Madame Smearem's cream. No natural beauty, no care of the health, no cultivation of the mind, no expression of the spirit, just buy the cream and smear it on.

Want to be famous, powerful and popular? Take Prof. Bluffem's course. No brains, no diligence, no character, no hard labor, just pay the tuition and the Professor will pour the necessary equipment into you.

So read the advertisements. And the advertisers know human nature. They know what the people want. What the people want is to buy things for money. To buy them with work, time, self-sacrifice, brains and courage is not so popular.

And what they want with the things they want to buy for little money is to use them to get more money, still without paying any-

Paris Above and Beneath The Ground

Cabot Yerxa writes another of his entertaining letters from Paris for this week's News. It gives an entertaining picture of the gay capital above and below the ground. The pleasure that News readers have derived from previous tales of his European experiences will be greatly enhanced by this one.

Paris, France.—Over here in Paris you cannot see the sun, moon nor stars. So it is easy for a desert man to get lost among the crooked streets in the old part of Paris. For the first few days I used to go out and get lost. Just to see if I could find the hotel again. The first time it took two hours to get back. It is quite a surprise to walk up to a man that looks intelligent and find he speaks only French and knows nothing of English.

Restaurants do not open until 12 noon. Paris eats no breakfast at all. Some stop in the first cafe and get a glass of wine. Others take a small cup of black coffee and put brandy in it. The balance drink weak coffee out of the smallest glass in captivity and eat a very small roll. If you eat two rolls you are regarded with suspicion. If you reach for the third one, they know you are an American.

Breakfast Philosophy

France could pay its war debt and increase the size of its men to something near the average of our West, if France would only eat breakfast. A good breakfast is what made the United States what it is today. Napoleon was a better observer and in closer sympathy with his men than any leader who ever lived. Napoleon summed it up in this sentence, "An army travels on its stomach."

Well, in Paris, you exist on dry bread and a small glass of coffee until noon. You lean against the door of the restaurant in a fainting condition and fall in when they unlock the door at 12 o'clock. Your meal will be good but served absolutely one thing at a time. Custom demands that you finish one thing before another comes.

Soup, sardine, meat, potatoes, vegetable and dessert—all these come one at a time on a clean plate. New England boiled dinner or a plate on any Thanksgiving day with all things on the same plate (and gravy also) would be a public disgrace over here.

Missing the Real Paris

This is the way it is in the real French quarter of the city. Many tourists never leave their own section of Paris. In this city there is an average of 500,000 strangers, so if you stay around where they are it is quite a city in itself. Home town papers on sale, English spoken in the stores and hotels. The tourists are made to feel at home. One restaurant has on the window in large letters, "English spoken and five o'clock teas served at all hours."

The tipping system is a great nuisance all over Europe and must be figured into the cost of everything. If the tip is too large they smile and say "thank you" in the correct language. If they think it too small, they ask for more in all languages.

Three million people live inside the fortifications of Paris and another million just outside. They have automobiles, subways, auto buses and street cars. Some few horses are still used but no burros. Sunday I went out to the national Zoo, in the Bois de Boulogne, to find a burro to talk with. But no (Continued on Page Two)

Wednesday's rain netted the Wednesday's rain added to the according to the report of Mrs. J. G. Blumer. This brings the season's total to 3.98 inches, which is .58 more rain than had fallen at this time last season. Records show that at this time last year only 3.40 inches had fallen.

Response to Cafeteria Call Is Fine

The eager response and efficient cooperation of P. T. A. members who are helping daily in the school cafeteria are very gratifying. The committee realizes that mothers are very busy during these pre-holiday times and appreciates the excellent services that are being offered. Last week the cafeteria was operated at a loss, but this week the deficit has been practically made up. P. T. A. members who volunteered during the present week were: Monday, Mrs. H. E. Allen; Tuesday, Mrs. E. A. Calvert; Wednesday, Mrs. J. Holbin; Thursday, Mrs. Allen Smith; Friday, Mrs. A. M. Croxson. Those scheduled for next week are: Monday, Mrs. Bradley Metcalf; Tuesday, Mrs. Sally Boaz; Wednesday, Mrs. C. L. Hoover; Thursday, Mrs. Frank Merrill; Friday, Mrs. R. Morein. Two of these are new comers who are interested, while they have no children in our schools, but are interested in seeing the project succeed.

The menu for next week will be: Monday, Hamburg balls, noodles with tomato sauce; Tuesday, scalloped potatoes, vegetable soup; Wednesday, macaroni and cheese, scalloped tomatoes; Thursday, corned beef hash, tomato soup; Friday, baked beans, savory beets.

The final lap of the membership drive is on to be closed next week so that results as to the prize winning room can be determined before Christmas. So far Mrs. Wood's class 4-B leads with 27 memberships to its credit. Miss Stevens, 1-B, comes next with 19, and five classes tie for third place, each having 18 memberships, Mrs. Moore, 2 A and B; Miss Anderson, 3 A and B; Mrs. Wheeler, 5 A and B; Mrs. McLaughlin, 6 B, and Mrs. Stanley, 6-A.

The P. T. A. in soliciting memberships feels that it is giving the town something in return—school cafeteria service at cost, milk supply at morning recess for underweight children practically at cost, financial aid for dental work that it hopes to have done in the near future, monthly programs with speakers who are able to give to the public knowledge of the trend of modern educational thought, interest in all activities that will bring parents and school together in a closer bond of understanding. Other lines of endeavor are possible only if city-wide cooperation is obtained.

Grateful acknowledgment is made to various townspeople who have made presents to the school and have sent money to the principal to be used for milk for children who can not so easily afford it as some others, thus supplementing P. T. A. work along the same line.

Red Cross Christmas seals are on sale at the office of the Southern California Edison Co. Money received from these seals will go to the county anti-tuberculosis society.

Edison Man To Address U.S. Chamber

With all arrangements completed, indications are that the mid-year meeting of the chamber of commerce of the United States to be held in Seattle, Monday and Tuesday of next week (Dec. 7 and 8) will be the most important gathering of its kind ever held in the West.

Outstanding leaders in industry, commerce and agriculture, representing the interests in these lines in the eleven western states will be in attendance. During the two-day session four important issues will come up for discussion, with practically a half day devoted to each.

Paul Shoup, vice-president of the national chamber for the western division, will be the presiding officer. At the opening morning session the question of freight claim cause and prevention will come up for discussion with J. I. King, vice president of the Pocatello-Idaho chamber of commerce as the opening speaker. The afternoon session will be devoted to the consideration of the hydro-electric situation in the west, with John B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison company as the opening speaker. Hydro-electric development both from the standpoint of private initiative and under municipal ownership will be considered.

Paris Above And Beneath The Ground

burros. Guess they could not live in all this rain.

Napoleon and a Burro

Searching the history of burros in Paris, this interesting account comes to notice. Far back in Napoleon's time, two evil men plotted together to assassinate him. As part of their plan, they purchased a burro from some Spanish gypsies who chanced to be in Paris. They made careful study of Napoleon's habits and decided that his trips to the theater were the least guarded.

On the eventful day the burro's back was stacked with gunpowder in small kegs and a long fuse attached with care. One of the men took the powder-laden burro to a place which Napoleon must pass closely while turning a corner. This was on the right bank of the Seine, in front of the Louvre, near where now stands the large statue of Gambetti, that patriot of France. Here the man said to a small girl, "Hold this burro for me and I will give you six francs." And the little girl was pleased to do so, it being near Christmas and she being glad to earn so much money. The other man watched for Napoleon in his carriage and was to signal his approach, so the powder man could light the fuse and make his escape out of the country.

At the expected time, Napoleon in his carriage was driven out of the palace that stood where now is the Jardin des Tuilleries. His route was directly past the hidden burro and its innocent looking pack and over the river Seine to the theater Comedie Francaise.

The lookout, when he saw Napoleon bowing and smiling to some officers on horseback, was overcome with remorse. And so having a change of heart, failed to signal his partner in crime.

Napoleon's mounted guard was almost upon the other man before he realized Napoleon was coming. He hurriedly lit the fuse and fled. When the powder exploded with terrific force, Napoleon was safely distant owing to the length of the fuse. But the little girl and the burro—where were they?

The police of Paris and all the palace guards made very careful examination in the vicinity of the explosion. All they found after several days' work, as a clue to the mystery, was the end of a burro's tail. So they knew that a burro was mixed up in the mystery somehow.

Diligent Search Was Made
Guards and soldiers were placed at the city gates and diligent search all over Paris resulted in locating the former owner of the burro. He described the man who had purchased it, and thus it was that he was arrested in Rue du Dragon of the Latin quarter of the city. He was cast into prison and later paid the death penalty.

The other man had a sweet heart. She, knowing what a desperate act was being planned, made a vow to become a nun if her lover's life was spared in the explosion. When he found she was a nun, he fled to America and became a priest.

The moral of the story seems to be, "Do not hold a burro loaded with gunpowder."

Safely Deposited

One of the most interesting places in all of Paris are the Catacombs, entered at Cour du Pavillon Ouest Place Donfert Rochereau. They are ancient subterranean stone quarries and enter often into the history of Paris. Later they became used for the deposit of bones of the dead. More than four million skeletons are piled in neat rows or thrown into piles to conserve space.

When piled, the leg and arm bones are placed like fire wood and at intervals are rows of skulls facing out. Thus completely filling the six or seven foot space between the stone floor and stone roof. Down between these rows and round piles you go, holding a small candle for light.

Entrance to the catacombs is only permitted once a month and at two o'clock. As is always the case, some tourists tried to get ahead of us so as to enter first. And I wondered, if this was really the door of death and if we who entered this day would stay forever in the Catacombs of Paris—would these same tourists still try to crowd up in front?

made by stone stairs round and round a center post, to approximately 100 feet below the surface. Everything is stone, and the dampness increases noticeably, until the walls are moist and the stone slippery underfoot.

At the bottom of the stairs, passages cut in solid rock lead off in different directions under the city of Paris. The policeman leads with his torch and the rest of us follow with candles. We still travel single file as the passages are very narrow and the stone roof is close to our heads. The course is crooked, sometimes turning abruptly to right or left and once crossing an underground stream of water. After walking about twenty minutes we came to the bones.

More Bones

And for the rest of an hour we walked in these dark tunnels almost touching the bones of skeletons on each side. Sometimes rooms were hewn out of the walls, but here again all space was filled with skulls or smaller bones.

In the fitful glare of one candle, skulls by the thousand and thousands seem to crowd in on your imagination a little.

In one of the passages, "X" and I got separated from the others. They had walked on ahead out of sight, and out of hearing, and we were alone. Sometimes the candle would go out. Water dripped from the roof onto a row of skulls with gaping eye sockets, and then dripped from bone to bone with a mournful monotonous sound.

"X" is scarcely more than a boy and the place got on his nerves. So with a good deal of feeling he exclaimed, "For Pete's sake, don't let that candle go out again; we haven't any more matches."

We walked on, at times hovering over that tiny candle flame like two old hens and one wee chick.

Weary and Worn Out

Once we came to an opening in the wall of bones, not large enough to pass through. We thrust the candle in and a drop of water fell on it, and it sputtered as candles will. With care we covered it with a hat and nursed it back to a flame. More cautiously this time, we reached the candle at arm's length, avoiding the drip of water. Gradually the flame gained strength, disclosing a moulding coffin standing on end. And there, in the coffin, stood a complete skeleton in a careless, natural pose. If a skeleton can grin and enjoy fun this one did enjoy the shock it gives the faint hearted to see the grim mystery that waits for us all.

Zig-zagging in passages up and down slight inclines, we tramped between millions of bones. Our vision limited to the candle light. At last we came to stone steps. Around and around, with shoulders touching the walls, we climbed nearly 100 steps to the surface and found ourselves in a different part of Paris. The fresh air and live people appreciated.

Woman's Club Notes

(Mrs. F. H. White, Press Chrm.)

Mrs. J. C. Dickson, committee on luncheon reservations; call her phone Red 68 before noon, Monday preceding club luncheon days for reservations.

Next Sunday, coming midway between our national feast of Thanksgiving and our religious feast of Christmas, has been set as Golden Rule Sunday and is primarily a day of observance at home. It is suggested that the menus for our tables on this day be prepared in parallel to those used by the child-rescue and life-saving institutions operating in the near east. For example, breakfast, cocoa and bread; dinner, beans and bread (lamb stew from cheaper cuts once a week); supper, grits, apricots, bread; these are actual meals served to them, and thousands of orphans three times a day chant as their "grace before meat," "Thou art the Great, Thou art the Good, by thy hands must all be fed; give us, Lord, our daily bread; amen."

On child per capita basis, $2 provides 40 meals; $5 one month's support; $60 one year's support; $100 one year's support and industrial training; $500 will train a ten-year-old boy to graduation at 16 years; $1000 cares for and educates an orphan in the Bird's Nest orphanage until self supporting; 35,000 children are now being cared for by the Near East relief, which was incorporated by an act of congress on Aug. 6, 1919, and whose full reports are submitted to the president of the United States annually. Copies will be sent to those interested.

Luncheon speaker, president of Santa Barbara woman's club.

The afternoon speaker will be Miss Horlocker, chairman of art; Miss Sabel, chairman of music; Mrs. Gerline, drama; Mrs. Routt, literature. Heads of these departments are specially invited.

Resourcefulness

ONE of the things which most impresses me concerning the youth of our present generation is its resourcefulness.

Wayne came up to college three years ago last September. He had just graduated from high school the previous June, and had spent the summer trying to sell maps or Bibles or aluminum or something of the sort. He had had some what indifferent success, but he brought along with him, a week before college opened, enough money to buy his books and to pay his fees, and leave him a few dollars to dangle before the jaws of the wolf.

He stumbled upon an old couple as he was going up and down the street looking for a lodging place. They were living in a comfortable cottage, and were trying to take care of themselves as best they might.

"We don't rent rooms," the old lady said to the inquiring boy. "Who takes care of you?" she asked.

"We look after ourselves," she answered.

"Why not let me do it?" he went on. "I'll cook your meals and wash the dishes and take care of the house, if you'll give me my room and board. You have a vacant room; why not? Take it easy, and let me do the work."

"Can you cook?"

"Not much, but I can learn anything."

It sounded good to the old lady, whose back was pretty tired from the regular fall house cleaning, and whose hands were chapped from washing dishes three times a day, and she took it up.

He did learn, and he stuck, and the question of living was for him settled for four years. He learned concentration, found that in time he had some leisure, and he got a job keeping the accounts of an organization, which gave him money enough for his simple social pleasures.

I saw him driving around not long ago in a little coupe.

"How come?"

"Well, I'd saved a little money and I just thought I'd buy it. It runs fine!"

He came to me a few days ago and gave me a check for fifteen dollars.

"You helped me get started when I came here," he explained, "when I was desperately hard up. Next fall when some one comes along who is discouraged and needs a little start, I wish you'd give him this."

He's going home next June with one hundred dollars in the bank and a motor car, and the amazing part about this story is that it is true.

CLAIM REALTY UNIT RECORD

With a million and a quarter parcels of realty within its borders, Los Angeles County leads all other counties of the country containing large cities in the aggregate number of separate units of real estate, according to C. A. Rudell, manager of the tax department of a local bank.

"There are 150 volumes in the county assessor's office. Each volume has 300 pages or more; there are 48 lines to each page and each line represents a parcel of real property," he explained, adding that only eight or ten volumes are necessary for the personal property lists.

Last year only 122 volumes were needed, the subsequent increase to 150 denoting the growth of the city. Much of the progress was due to the subdivision activity, Rudell says.

If You Want to Look Like This —Don't Smoke

You are going to be disappointed when you look at the face in this Advertisement. It will be such a shock from the type of Faces you always see in Advertisements. They generally get some Guys face to use in a Collar or Underwear Ad that looks like he was just born for that Ad. You never see him in real life or anything that ever looked like him. These "Bull" Durham people conceived the idea of something new. They felt that you were tired looking at such handsome faces in Ads, it was so discouraging to men who looked at them because they knew they could never look like these fellows themselves. So they wanted a homely face that would be an inspiration to other homely men, (because there is a terrible lot of hard looking Birds among you readers). So after looking the World over they picked on me. I don't smoke "Bull" Durham, so the Moral is IF YOU WILL SMOKE IT, YOU WILL NEVER LOOK LIKE ME. I am the horrible example of a man not using it.

A report has just been received from a local avocado association which shows that the Southern California grown avocado has the highest food content of any grown in the United States. A law has been passed in California which prohibits the sale of avocados carrying less than eight per cent fat content. Because the Southern California avocado carries 25 to 31 per cent fat it brings the highest price on the local as well as the eastern market.

The Community's Obligation To The Newspaper

By G. F. RINEHART, Covina Citizen

IT MIGHT be the occasion of more or less surprise to some people to even imply that the community has any obligation whatever to its newspaper. The average newspaper is regarded very often by the community as nothing more than a necessary evil, to be tolerated but not encouraged.

As a veteran newspaper man who understands the relations that obtain between the community and its newspaper and between the newspaper and its community, having had experience from both angles, and, as one who does not hesitate to hold the newspaper to the highest ideals, I have no reluctance whatever in saying that, no matter what enterprises your community may contain, no matter what institution it fosters, no matter what its opinions may be as to relative values of various enterprises, the fact remains that the newspaper, sustained as it deserves, is very frequently far and away its greatest asset.

A Philanthropic Institution

The newspaper is the one institution that stands forever in the forefront, the advance guard of community effort, the trained scout forever on the alert for danger, the skilled pilot leading the way to civic righteousness and community culture. No matter what philanthropists you may have in your community, your newspaper excels them all in relative largess and widespread distribution of its gifts. It is called upon at any and all times, for any and all purposes, to serve the public need, and it leads all others in giving its stock in trade freely and voluntarily, and often in response to unreasonable and impertinent demands.

A Chronic Booster

The newspaper is the vital center, the nucleus, the ganglion—the soul of the community. About it centers the activities, the interchange, the quickening thoughts and impulses that mean community uplift, social betterment. It is the abiding friend, the good angel, the public utility always on the job, boosting for civic progress and social righteousness.

Reciprocal Relations

Naturally, with such ideals of newspapering, I am sensible of the duties and obligations that the community owes to such an enterprise as a newspaper. I believe in reciprocity. I believe in the doctrine of appreciation. I believe in giving flowers to the living rather than to the dead; and, so believing, I do not hesitate to say that the community owes decided obligations to its newspaper, and that these debts should be paid, not at a discount, but freely, fully and openly, as a matter of simple duty, as a fifty-fifty proposition on the business principle of give and take.

Newspaper Deserves Support

The first and last duty of the community to the newspaper is the obligation of support. Not in the sordid and contemptible spirit of the average man who thinks because he pays for a subscription that he owns the paper, but in the broad spirit of the man who willingly contributes his share to the support of the newspaper as a community investment which pays direct and measurable returns.

A Community Measure

The community is invariably measured by the support it gives its newspaper. This is the only yardstick, the one infallible rule by which every community is judged, and it happens to be the very best index to community worth. The man who measures a community by the support it gives its newspaper never makes a mistake. Dead communities, wondering what is the matter with themselves, will do well to recognize this obvious fact. You cannot build up a community by knocking its best booster down. You kill a community when you kill its principal asset.

Not only should your support be financial but it should be moral as well. The community should boost the newspaper which boosts the community. It is just as easy to cultivate the habit of saying a word of encouragement about a newspaper as it is to sound a note of disparagement. The average individual prefers the latter. He is a dispenser of gloom. He has a grouch against the newspaper because it is not yet recognized his superior worth. Knowing nothing of the exactions of newspapering he misjudges motives and is led into erroneous conclusions and rank injustices.

Ministerial Duty

If I were a minister I would advertise in the local newspaper or I would resign my job. I would never ask an editor, struggling to pay his overhead, for free space to exploit my announcements. I should regard religion as a going concern, as fully solvent and able to pay dividends on the investment, and I would run the church on that basis, or I would not run it at all. Certainly I would not regard the church as a bankrupt concern depending for its publicity on the gratuities of the press.

An Ethical Proposition

If I were a doctor I would advertise my skill. If I had not skill to advertise I would get a hoe and develop my muscles in manual employment. I would not raise the question on paid advertising and accept with delight advertising which is free. It is never unethical to pay for what you get. The doctor who cannot sense the inconsistency of his attitude lacks perspective. The press advertises the doctor free from the time he opens his office without a patient until he is planted in the local cemetery, and then gives him a free obituary, kindly refraining from mentioning the fact that his demise was due to taking, or not taking, his own medicine.

The Banker's Viewpoint

If I were a banker I should advertise freely in the local press. The banker deals in moneys and credits and he knows that an editor with a deposit is preferable to one who is a chronic borrower. He also knows that without the newspaper the weeds would grow in the city streets, and that the average community does not make its money out of weeds.

The Merchant's Salvation

If I were a merchant I would either advertise or get off the street. There is no excuse for any man to settle down in a town which has been built up by the boosting of a newspaper and there absorb, like a sponge, the trade and patronage brought to town by the live merchants who do advertise. In these times of high pressure no business can succeed without advertising. The man who neglects his publicity invites the sheriff and the spider. Sooner or later both find the store of the man who does not advertise. This type of merchants is being relegated to the oblivion he deserves by the growth of the mail order house which merely capitalizes the ignorance of the small merchant who refuses to advertise.

The Chamber's Reliance

If I were a member of the chamber of commerce I would not ask the newspaper to do all the community boosting free of charge. The community ought to pay its way. It is a poor neighborhood that depends for its growth and development on the exploitation of the newspaper and the periodical raids upon its space. As space is the only thing the newspaper has to sell, I should insist on the chamber buying it and paying for it like any other going concern.

The Woman's Auxiliary

If I were a club woman I would see to it that my obligations to the newspaper were discharged with scrupulous regard to reciprocal balance. I would see to it that the newspaper which carried my propaganda, which exploited my wares with lavish disregard for the value of space, secured what little jobs of printing I had to bestow without entering into competition with the alley job printer who could by no possibility render me such service.

The Citizen's Aid

If I were simply the resident of a community without profession or calling, I should first recognize the fact that the newspaper is my most hopeful ally, my community dependence, my civic partner, and I should make it a point to get acquainted with the editor, say a good word occasionally, and let him know that as a member of the community I appreciated his good work, recognized his difficulties and sympathized with his efforts at community upbuilding. I should not regard the small amount I paid him for subscription as a mortgage on his plant, nor that the editor was under obligations to join my side in a local controversy. I should think twice before I stopped my subscription because I saw something in the paper I did not like, or because I received a notice that my subscription was in arrears.

Fifty-Fifty Proposition

The obligations of a community to its newspaper are just as definite, just as fixed and immutable, just as imperative, as the obligations of the newspaper to the community. The relations are mutual and reciprocal. Let us give to our communities the sort of newspapers duty demands, and then insist, first, last and all the time, not as a gratuity, not as a favor, but as a matter of right, upon receiving in return the obligations due to us.

Dinner was served to the visitors by the ladies of the parish after which an address was delivered by Joseph Scott, well known Los Angeles attorney.

FAITHS VARY IN POMONA STUDENT BODY

Figures released by Clifford Nott Hand, director of religious interests at Pomona college, show that the largest majority of students at Pomona college are Congregationalists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Baptists.

Results of a questionnaire made out by all students show that eighteen denominations are represented among 797 students who are members or adherents of some denomination. Only 48 students stated no preference.

The division of student members and non-member adherents among the various denominations is as follows: Congregationalists, 241, or 22 per cent of the entire student body; Methodists, 182, or 19 per cent; Presbyterians, 146; Episcopalians, 61; Baptists, 42; Christian Scientists, 39; Unitarians and Lutherans, 9 each; Unions and Roman Catholics, 8 each; Universalists, 5; United Presbyterians and Evangelicals, 3 each; and one each of Jewish, Nazarene, and Russian-Orthodox denominations.

The presence of so many denominations represented in the student body is believed by local college authorities to be proof of the genuine service of a non-denominational institution. Although originally started by Congregationalists, the Pomona college charter specifically provided that there should be no denominational control and that its influence should be positively but broadly Christian.

Canceling an Obligation

I HAD never known Myers perticularly well in college. He had been ill occasionally; he had asked for a vacation extension once in a while and had taken advantage of most of the special privileges which are open to undergraduates.

It was about two years after his graduation that I heard from him.
He had had a long run of hard luck; he had been out of a job for some time, but now he was securely settled in a paying position.

Could I let him have twenty-five dollars until his first pay day? He really needed it for food and lodging, and I should hear from him at the end of the month.

Lending money to the indigent student is about as certain of profit as investing it in oil stock—there's a chance that you'll come out ahead. I sent Myers his money, however, and waited until the end of the month. In fact I waited three months and then I wrote him.
There was, of course, no reply.

Myers was evidently engrossed with his job.

I called him up a few months later when I was in the city. He was very apologetic. He had married, he explained, almost immediately after getting his new job. Being a married man myself, he suggested, it would not be necessary to say that the marital relation involved at the outset, at least, rather heavy financial responsibil-ties.

I understood perfectly. If I would bear with him he would pay very shortly, he assured me—three months at the outside.

I waited six and then dropped him a note again. This time he replied, and there was a note of exaltation in his letter. He was a father. Myers, Jr., had come to town. There had been a good many expenses as is frequently true in such a case; would I not wait a little longer? I am still waiting, though that was before we went into the war.

Graham's landlady called me on the telephone yesterday. Graham was behind in his rent two months, she said, and she very much needed
the money. Would I speak to him about it? I am not officially responsible for Graham's financial affairs, but in the interest of good citizenship I undertook to speak to the boy about the bill.

He simply didn't have the money, he explained. He'd had an accident to his car and had bought a fur coat—all the fellows had them—and she'd have to wait. The amount wasn't large anyway, and he couldn't see why the old girl was making such a fuss about it.
Why, indeed?

TROJANS PLAN TO COME BACK NEXT SATURDAY

Can a team which has been a consistent winner throughout a season of ten games get back into its early victory stride after being upset by a squad rated as the "biggest disappointment of the West?"

That is what fans of the Southland are wondering about the University of Southern California Trojans following their 12-17 defeat at the hands of the scrapping
Washington State Cougars last Saturday. For the Trojans will this week meet in the Oregon Aggies one of the strongest teams in the Northwest. Throughout this season that section of the Pacific coast has been playing havoc with the peacefulness of the California teams.

Is a comeback possible? Iowa was tearing along at a championship clip this season when Wisconsin nosed out a 6-0 victory over them. The following week the Hawkeyes went all to pieces, losing to Minnesota 33-0 and when the Mid-Westerners came to the coast to meet the Trojans they played a terrible brand of football.

U. S. C. came back after the Stanford defeat but it was against Arizona. It will be a different matter to scrap the brilliant Oregon Aggies.

With two weeks lay-off the O.
A. C. team will come to Southern California on an even better footing than did the Washington Staters. The Cougars had the advantage of the same lay-off and showed the good effect of such a rest when they literally swept the famed "Thundering Herd" off its feet. W. S. C. deserved to win and they did.

The Oregon Aggies have run up a total of 268 points this season to their opponents' 53. The Trojans have a slight edge in dope with Stanford for Coach Howard Jones' men held the Cards to a 9-13 score while O. A. C. lost 10-26. Both U. S. C. and O. A. C. won from Montana by a score of 27-7.

That O. A. C. has a good team is shown by the fact that they defeated Oregon 24 to 13. This same Oregon team held the Pacific Coast champion Washington team to a 15-14 victory.

Washington State showed Saturday that U. S. C. is meeting no set-ups this season after the earlier games. Intensive practice is now under way on the Trojan field in preparation for O. A. C.
There will be no lay-offs before the contest.

Advertising is the fuel of business. Stint the fuel and your engine runs slow. No fuel, no speed.

All Year Club Sends Out Story

The story of the vacation charm of Southern California is to go to 60 of the most significant men in 40 of the foremost countries of the world in a single mailing.

The men are members of the International Olympic committee which controls the modern revival of the Olympic games the tenth of which, due to the efforts of was impressed with the fact that the new booklet of the All-Year club called "Southern California, Year 'Round Vacation Land Supreme" tells the story of Southern California charmingly. Wishing his fellow committeemen to know more of the land where they will visit seven years from now, he sent each the book with his com-

Truck Is Added to Equipment

The growth of the Sierra Madre Transfer company is shown by the recent purchase by Mr. Whyte and Mr. Askew of the newest and latest word in International Motor Van trucks for their furniture moving and general trucking business. The new truck is all air tire equipped insuring goods against road jolts. An underslung frame sets the load very low for safety and higher speed on longer runs such as up or down the coast. Comfort has also been provided for the driver and helper by an enclosed cab and deep comfortable seats which has heretofore been neglected in motor truck building. The new truck is capable of hauling a capacity load to San Francisco or San Diego in two-thirds the time formerly required.

Mr. Whyte and Mr. Askew have been operating the Sierra Madre Transfer company for over five years and attribute their success to the first class equipment they maintain and service they strive to give.

ESSAY CONTEST ON CITIZENSHIP WILL BE HELD

An "essay contest" is to be conducted by the department of American Citizenship, of the California Federation of Woman's clubs, to which all members of the senior classes of the 69 high schools of the Los Angeles district are eligible—governing rules as follows:

1. Subject, "My Interpretation of Good Citizenship."
2. No race or partisan question must be suggested.
3. Essay shall not exceed 2500 words.
4. Manuscripts must be typewritten—on one side of the paper only.
5. Any senior class high school student in Inyo, Los Angeles, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties eligible to enter contest.
6. A writer may submit more than one manuscript, non-returnable.
7. The name of author must not appear on manuscript. However, enclosed with the manuscript in the envelope in which it is submitted, must be a sealed envelope containing name, address, telephone and high school affiliation of the author.
8. Awards will be made on literary merit and on the value of essay to general program of education along the lines of citizenship.
9. Manuscripts must be in the hands of Mrs. Maynard Thayer, 651 S. Pasadena avenue, Pasadena, California, district chairman of American Citizenship, by midnight Jan. 1, 1926. Awards to be announced.
10. The essay taking first place will be the contribution of the department of American citizenship, at the annual district convention.
11. The essay awarded first place will receive $20 in gold; the essay taking second place, $10, and honorable mention to third place.

The American citizenship department hopes by this method to establish a closer contact between the women's clubs and the

California Puts in Big Bid for Golf

California, it now appears, has grabbed the easy chair of "golf corner." By opening the winter season with the $10,000 Los Angeles open championship, California takes the edge off anything Florida has to offer. Country clubs in or near Los Angeles have raised an additional $4500 or more, according to reports, thus giving golfers plenty of silver dollars to do battle for.

A fine field has been secured for the $10,000 event. The entry list includes Al Watrous, Bill Melhorn, Gene Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood, Mike Brady, Johnny Farrell, Johnny Boyd, Tom Golden, Harry Cooper, Willis Hunter, Bobby Cruickshank, Jock Hutchinson, and others. The route will be 72 holes with medal style of play. Qualifying rounds of 18 holes will be held on Jan. 8 and 9 with the final 36 holes on Jan. 10. On Jan. 7, the pro-amateur tournament will be held. Virginia Country club of Long Beach is offering a $2500 purse for a two-day tournament, Jan. 2 and 3. Intervening days will be filled in with special tournaments staged by golf and country clubs in and around Los Angeles. It is very possible that the California open will be staged immediately after the $10,000 open. This would add $2000 more to the prize money.

The north course of the Los Angeles Country club, where par is 72 and yardage 6390, has been selected as the site for the big open. Golfing experts rate it as one of the finest in California and an excellent test of golf, the seventeenth hole being one of the most famous in the country.

young people of today who will soon take upon themselves the responsibilities of citizenship. The clubs throughout the district have been urged to become interested in this endeavor, and encourage participation in the high school of your community.

Scouts Have Busy Season On Program

Sierra Madre Troop No. 1 joined with Troop No. 2 in the opening ceremony at the Park house on Nov. 29. Games were played such as prisoner's base and a "Champ Nit" contest was held in knot tying. A rescue method and artificial respiration was demonstrated and first aid for life saving practiced.

Troop No. 1 scouts have prepared themselves in the first class scout's tests and are now ready to recruit tenderfoot scouts.

The third letter of the patrol leaders' "pow-wow" was given out to patrol leaders. This letter is all about getting out in the open, hiking and camping: 1 The site; 2 The confab; 3 Equipment; 4 Food, including a food for each scout, and exercises and games. This letter is signed, sincerely and cordially yours, L. L. McDonald, national camp director. So you must know that there is real meat in this letter for patrol leaders and their patrols.

A patrol leaders' "pow-wow" was held Saturday evening at the home of Patrol Leader Merrill Jensen. The patrol leaders' second letter was discussed and some points of scout leadership brought out. Investiture exercises for tenderfoot scouts were outlined. Troop colors were finally decided upon as brown and green. These colors are significant of the natural colors of our "Mother Mountains" or Sierra Madre. The business and welfare of being well cared for by the patrol leaders as a leading and governing body of Troop No. 1.

The Troop 1 Boy Scouts' exhibit will be held in the show room of J. Milton Steinberger's garage on West Central avenue on Jan. 1 to 6, inclusive.

It is planned that the boys of Troop 1 will give some time to the sale of Christmas Red Cross seals.

The scoutmaster is now making an illuminated scout emblem that will be seen soon at scout addresses and at investiture exercises.

Boys of scout age, 12 years old or over, whose parents are willing, may now apply for membership in Troop No. 1. Parents should see or phone Norman B. Jensen, scoutmaster, 177½ North Lima street, Blue 214, or Thomas Schwartz, assistant scoutmaster, at Jones' store on North Baldwin avenue. Boys may see or phone any of the following patrol leaders: Bernhard Bodine, 92 Suffolk avenue, Red 155; Dick Barbour, 47 North Lima street, Blue 16; Carl Knowles, 541 West Live Oak avenue; —Merrill Jensen, 561 W. Grand View avenue, Green 32.

Observations

all fathers to some searching self-examination.

Just how much interest do you take in your own boy? Do you leave his education entirely to a succession of school teachers of whom you know nothing? Do you let your boy feel that you have an interest in his school work and progress? Do you leave the general welfare of the public schools to the P. T. A. and the school board? Do you leave the boy's health and hygiene to the school nurse and the district health officer? Do you ever give any thought to the boy's aptitude so you can direct his education and help him in the things that are not so easy? What do you know of the boy's recreation and his companions? What do you know about your boy's training in moral standards and religion—who teaches him and what is he taught?

Most of all—what does your boy know about YOUR education, YOUR cleanliness of body and mind, YOUR business standards, YOUR recreation, YOUR sympathy, YOUR ideals of morality and religion for the public, for your- self and for your boy?

CAN YOU ACCOUNT FOR SUCH DEVILRY?

Maybe some News reader can account for the spirit which would prompt a person to commit such depredations as were discovered in the house belonging to Charlie Mullins on East Montecito. Charlie was formerly the popular assistant at the P. E. station and is now agent at Sherman. Everybody who knows him would swear that he never injured anybody by word or action, or gave any cause for retaliation in such fashion.

Here is Charlie's account of what happened:

"I did not realize the beautiful city of Sierra Madre could contain any persons within its limits who were so sneaking and cowardly and capable of such foul thought and low principle as to break into a residence that happened to be unoccupied and cut the curtains and draperies into shreds, rip the bedding to pieces, and scatter contents over the house, dump contents, feathers and all throughout the house, pour a large quantity of concentrated lye on the rugs and then bring a hose in the house and turn water on the lye, thereby destroying the rugs.

"There was only one nice slip they made. They got their fingers wet and into some baking flour and left some very fine prints of their thumbs and fingers on some cooking utensils. I have a well known detective firm of Los Angeles on that trail. We suspect one party that still resides in Sierra Madre. They should keep their hands very clean and in their pockets twenty-four hours daily.

"P. S. We sure do enjoy your column, 'Observations,' and we had a lot of merriment out of the one where Mr. Askmore raised his hand to stop the truck, and the driver also raised his—with thumb to nose. But I believe traffic control is better in Los Angeles than before the new law went into effect."

"You Were Wrong, Rudyard"

And you learned about women from her, you say? Now, Rudyard, that couldn't be true; I'll bet you right now, number one won't teach how you're to act when you're with number two.

I've learned about women myself, Rudyard,

But the line that I'd use on one Couldn't be the same thing when another one came, That's a thing which is simply not done.

So you've taken your fun where you've found it, eh, Rudyard? Well, that's where you've gone wrong; You must hunt for a really want to learn from you.
